17th Annual Prairie Day, September 20th.
Submitted by Susie Johnson

The day was wonderful. The event all came together nicely due to the park staff joining in, partners showing so much enthusiasm and making everything so easy... setting up our tents the day before has been a wonderful idea. Wish I could remember who came up with that idea!!

Thank you to Exelon for becoming the sponsor for this event. They had showed interest in prior years so we were grateful for their support.

Exelon set up a booth with many handouts. It was nice to have the sponsor on the grounds with us. The presenters were on time, the wagon master and plant interpreter were active, and the crowd was steady. Up until the rain came. We had a wagon ride in process at 1:30 and everyone got literally soaked to the skin before the wagon master could bring them back to the center but no one was angry. Thank you for understanding!

The plaster molded dioramas (children's project) turned out lovely. We went into that project with a lot of stress. It was a last minute idea, with a lot of failed trials but were pleasantly surprised that the plaster set up much faster than expected. We had just enough volunteers to make the day go smoothly.

Lou with his American Indian Museum never seems to tire of the many questions he received about his Indian items.

With the rain the last ride was canceled and the last two acts were not as filled but you can never count on the Prairie to behave itself in September.

Chuck Johnson handled the drawing. The first recipient actually thanked us but did not accept the quilt as her closet was already full of quilts. So Dawn Krause of Morris is the winner. Lois Brandt of Morris was the salesman and she was awarded a turquoise GLPSNA T-shirt.

Our first performer of the day, Dave DiNaso, had a 25 foot albino python in his collection. After a small delay and an unforeseen event with his snake we started our day.

While Dave tended to his snake, we began a question answer - what family is a beaver from, what family is a turtle from, what family is a spider from, and about that time Dave walked in with the snake ready. So, he picked up on the spider and his show went on from there smoothly thanks to the quick thinking of Susie Johnson. Everyone that wanted to petted every reptile and amphibian that he pulled out of his boxes.

Thank you to partner Jan Alexander, for making our Food Tent a success and totally supported by us. Our guests seemed very happy with the food we offered.

Our next act is the Invincible Bats. After a 45 minute lecture with a slide show our guests could take photos of the bats. When she pulled out Baxter (a four month old skunk, but not the American kind) the kids could touch and interact with him. He even has a Facebook page!

Our returning act, Scales and Tales (Beth Wagner) is out of Chicago, and she brought more local animals, like the pot belly pig, baby chicks, ant eater (Smelllllyyyy), huge tortoise, and a snowy owl that literally flew across the room. Photo opportunities were the best! Kids even fed the pig and petted a spider.

The last program was the Archaeologist that explained what it was to study archaeology. Unfortunately, most of our crowd had left, so he had a small audience who were interested in the topic and could contribute to the discussion, and some of the Prairie Partners were able to attend.

The event was well attended, over 200 visitors, and we can't thank the community and Exelon enough for their support. We are excited to announce that Exelon will be supporting us in 2015.
